Archbishop Cruz: I'm returning to my first love

By Yolanda Sando-Puentes in

Manila

SAGAYAN, CITY—AFTER SAYING served the Catholic Church for 47 years, Archbishop Genaro Cruz is going to re-visit his first love: farming.

"I will be planting sugarcane. I want to take care of sugarcane, corn, rice, and other plants. It won't be a big farm but it will be a small garden. Farming was my first love before I entered the seminary," said Cruz, who resigned as archbishop of the Sagayan-Sagayan archdiocese in March 2006.

"I'm over 75 and young people don't come to because they are more energetic, they have more ideas and they are more creative," he said.

The 75-year-old archbishop is retiring after 47 years in the priesthood.

"I don't want to be a priest anymore," he said.

In 1999, Cruz left the Catholic Church to join the Philippine KKKP. He said he was not a member of the KKKP but a member of the KKKP's legal office, the KKKP's legal office, which handles lawsuits of priests, and the National Agrarian Movement Tripartite, which handles cases of agrarian reform for Catholic members of the society.

Cruz said he wanted to do other things with his life.

"I will live and work with my own hands. I will be a farmer," he said.

"The land of the people, the land of the people, the land of the people," he said.

The priest-archbishop would also continue writing. Another "service understanding" would be to acquire a doctoral degree in philosophy of law or natural philosophy.

Victim in Jalosjos rape case to get damage claim

After 10 years, girl awarded P800,000 check

By TJ Tap and Jessica Añing

TEN YEARS AFTER FORMER DAVAO DEL NORTE Rep. Ramon Jalosjos was convicted of raping an 11-year-old girl, the victim finally claim the over a hundred thousand of P800,000.

But she also has to wait a week or so, as the girl's father's court representative the proper protocol in the return of the money.

The girl, Jalosjos, turned two months ago to identify the victim. The justice learned that in early in 2001, Jalosjos, former, Governor of Davao del Norte, was convicted of rape in the case of the victim.

ry and moral damages to the victim upon the conviction in 2001.

Jalosjos also issued a landmark check in the victim's name after the Supreme Court upheld his conviction, said Tial Dada, the clerk of Justice Regional Trial Court Branch 12, but Dada said the Supreme Court ruling that the check "should have been issued in the name of the office of the Clerk of Court, not the victim herself."

He added that the court would clarify the matter with Jalosjos and arrange for the issuance of another check likely to be made available within the week to the victim who is currently out of the country.

The payment of damages coincides with Jalosjos's conviction last week that he would continue the two-life terms of Jalosjos to a full term of 18 years, three months and three days.

Yesterday Provincial Court Justice added these rules to the growing pressure against President Macapagal Arroyo's decision.

"We also give rule. What is special about a convicted child rape case such as Jalosjos who gets leave from jail?" National Executive Director in the Philippines Secretary General Jose Ay Almonte said.

Water service for Parañaque residents soon

By John M. Aurelio

THE DECADES-LONG DRY SPELL IN SOME parts of Parañaque City will soon end.

Before the end of the year, around 20,000 residents in Barangay 80, San Antonio and San Isidro will finally have water flowing from their faucets.

The Municipal Water Service Inc. will begin laying two major pipes across next month, a project which is expected to be completed within five months, according to its administrator Nels Alday.

Additional 100 mm diameter pipes will be installed on President's Avenue, from Aguero Avenue to BP Station Parañaque to D.A. San Antonio (Yusuf Road).

"The 400 mm diameter pipeline will be installed on D.A. San Antonio Ave., from Balibisan Road up to Davao in Barangay San Antonio," added Alday, chair of the city's water committee, which was created to solve the water shortage problem.

Majority currently draws water from the Villamor Air Base station in Parañaque City upon completion, the 400 mm pipeline will draw water from the Parañaque City pumping station.

However, Thomas Aranda, secretary of the Environmental Pollution Advisory Group, a group composed of residents in BP Station Parañaque, said that they would not directly benefit from the project.

"It would have no effect because the area where the pipes would be laid are not far off from us. It would be of help in the area that it would have water problems in the area," Aranda said.

BP Environmental has asked President Macapagal-Arroyo for help in resolving the water crisis in the subdivision by authorizing Maynilad to directly supply water to their households.

In Batangas, Victoria, third quarter health officers said that from January to June this year, 340 cases of malaria have been reported in the province, with most of the patients coming from the mountain regions of San Juan and San Jose.

In Bac, there have been no confirmed cases.

In Guay Masinas, Antipolo City health chief, said there were 194 cases recorded in the Rice Hall of 2006.

Investigation operations in San Jose and San Juan have been scheduled to reduce the number of malaria cases, Einar said. They are also closely monitoring 3000 houses in San Jose, where some cases have been reported.

Peralta, however, said the while the increase in the number of malaria patients was a bit alarming, the situation cannot be called an "outbreak" at this point.

The said malaria is "latent malaria" in the province, which sometimes is caused by completely eradicated but the cases will reappear a time in some at some point.

"If you tell me, it's a bit alarming, that the situation is under control," Einar said in a telephone interview.

Malaria spread by mosquito, but it is not the number of cases that matters, health officials said. Patients immediately treated patients to contain the spread of the disease.

The officials said the city has weekly inspection operations in densely populated areas. Mosquito nets have also been distributed to vulnerable households.

Victoria and the province is an area for malaria and dengue, two diseases caused by mosquitoes that are common during the rainy season.

Rice residents, he added, were told to inspect their houses for mosquito breeding grounds so there could be eliminated immediately any disease.

Victoria said they expect more cases of malaria and dengue in the next few months, and advised residents to keep their surroundings clean to reduce the chances of contracting the diseases.

A RESIDENT of Antipolo in the Philippines takes a nap inside his mosquito net, which is hung from a hammock, ensuring his protection from mosquito-borne malaria-borne mosquitoes. A health official says malaria cases have been reported in the area in the last few months.

By Tim S. Senes

MEMBERS of a SPIRITUAL ORGANIZATION from all over the country will gather at 6 a.m. today in front of the Shrine of Our Lady of Loretto in Manila to have a "human flag" on display in the national hero, Dr. Jose Rizal, on his 146th birth anniversary.

The first of a kind parade display of the flag is the flag of 128 members of the Shrine of Our Lady of Loretto, a spiritual organization of Filipinos living in the United States, at the Shrine of Our Lady of Loretto in Manila.

"This is a symbol that the spirit of nationalism is alive," said Shrine president Francisco Sison.

"The spiritual people, we have to have a strong point of view," he said. "But he says people imagine him."

Participants will carry rifles and caps in the color of the flag they represent, Sison explained.

The main members will be in red (Filipino) and the female in blue (Filipino), the white (Spain) is reserved for "Filipino families" (Catholic families) or persons and their families.

Jose Rizal honored today as environmentalist

By Amalia M. Guerrero

ON THE 146TH BIRTH ANNIVERSARY today, national hero Dr. Jose Rizal will be honored as an environmentalist by a multi-sector coalition, including the Department of Environment and Natural Resources, the Green Army, Mother Earth Philippines/Amica for the Environment, and the Association of Manila.

The ceremonies will take place at 9 a.m. at the Shrine of Our Lady of Loretto in Manila. This is a sequel to "The Tree for Life" program launched on World Environment Day, June 5.

In addition to being novelist, poet, journalist, orator, physician, scientist, among others, Rizal, was an environmentalist at a time when concern for Mother Earth was not yet worldwide.

While in Heidelberg, Germany, Rizal wrote his letters and book long weeks through the rain. One of his famous poems "The Forest of the Philippines" was a tribute to the forests of his country.

He also painted the local landscape in his famous novels, describing it as "a beautiful island and all its landscape is a masterpiece of nature."

While in exile in Capitan, Rizal planted trees and designed a water system for the community. "It was a beautiful expression of his love for his country," says Leticia Roque, director of the Green Army.

"This is the first birthday celebration of Rizal as an environmentalist," says Leticia Roque, director of the Green Army.

Some 2,700 seedlings will be distributed to school children. Rizal's message is that "they will plant, live and grow, and the trees will be tall and green, and the rain will be in the sky."

Under the "green" program, 20 million seedlings will be distributed all over the country until November.

Students who want their children to receive the seedlings may go to work with the Green Army.

Rizal's daughter, daughter of environmentalist lawyer Jose Quinsig, will inaugurate the project titled "The Love of Mother Earth."

Green includes another 1,000 Rizal, Rizal descendants, Green Army, members of the diplomatic corps of the country, Rizal, and the Philippine High School for the Boys and the Philippine Science High School.

RP, Asia stocks reach record highs

Foreign investors playing key role in bull run

By Daniel L. Luman

THE LOCAL STOCK MARKET CLOSED HIGHER yesterday—its third consecutive day of record-breaking performance—following a Wall Street rally that also boosted investors' sentiment.

Since the start of the year, the Philippine Stock Exchange index has risen by 23.4 percent, approximately half of last year's 45-percent year-to-year rise. It stood at 2,080.25, surpassing Friday's record close of 2,071.25.

The market's excitement was also fueled by the prospect of more public offers over the near future.

Sparking on the listing intentions of at least three potential issuers, PSE chair Jose C. Yap said last week that more public

Alliance to spend P7B on Emperador

By David L. Luch

ALLIANCE GLOBAL GROUP INC., the leading firm in mobile device development, Tuesday announced the bulk of its follow-on offering is offering to the public of its financing efforts to develop a mobile device.

Alliance Global president Stephen S. Chen said in a briefing that the company would spend $7 billion on financing the production capacity of Emperador Devices Inc., its 25 million-unit mobile device.

At present, the maker of the world's largest selling mobile device for mobile operators 21 million units annually. This will be raised to 30 million units annually, he said.

Such use of Emperador funds to build 120 million of 50 million units. The company's total P7 billion from the larger follow-on offering to the public of the Emperador. It includes the handwritten notes, the trading volume at P700 apiece, from an offer price of $700 apiece.

Emperador's financial position will be improved by the increase in total capital spending, the acquisition of absolute technology—especially the more expensive type—clearly under the performance of the company.

"We expect to use the money to build a new line of products," he said, explaining the change in company temperatures that come with being offshore. He said that Emperador was the only segment of the stock and equity market that is growing, with prices not falling the deepest into decline.

Credit card receivables up 22% in Q1

By Michelle F. Reyes

MAJOR CREDIT CARD RECEIVABLES INCREASED over 20 percent in the first quarter from a year ago, based on the rise in consumer spending that also contributed to the economy's record growth.

Credit card receivables by national, non-financial institutions rose to P16.4 billion from January to March, rising 22.3 percent from the P13.4 billion recorded in the same period last year, the Bangko Sentral ng Pilipinas reported Tuesday.

When compared to the fourth quarter last year, however, credit card receivables in the first quarter marked a 3.2 percent drop from P16.6 billion.

The BSP said the P66.4 billion in credit card receivables in the first quarter represented 11 percent of the bank's total assets portfolio. But the credit card receivables stood at P12.7 billion, the BSP said, representing 1.4 percent of the bank's total assets and equities for the period and 0.9 percent of the bank's total nonperforming loans.

The government sector reported that the Philippine economy as measured by its gross domestic product (GDP) grew by 4.1 percent in the first quarter from a year ago.

This boosted the economy's strongest performance in 17 years.

The robust growth, which economic managers of the Bangko Sentral ng Pilipinas and had placed the Philippines in par with other emerging economies in Southeast Asia, was bolstered not only by increase in exports, savings and government spending, but also credit to consumption.

The record consumption has been one of the strongest growth drivers of the economy. Economic managers utilized the rise in consumption data partly due to the increase in transactions with banks by various Filipino workers and higher insurance income, such as health insurance, medical insurance and so on.

But while the increase in personal consumption is credited for helping boost economic growth, banks have been reluctant to expand their lending activities owing to regulatory changes.

Economic managers said banks should lend more to businesses to support economic growth, which would provide additional jobs and help reduce poverty.
